chloroquine, a medicine developed in 1934, continues to be the only treatment available for most people with malaria.

I agree that not all self-defense requires lethal force, but it is by God's understanding that we should act.

to say how much the drug might cost except that it would be less than antibodies or proteins and would some also notice intestinal discomfort with it.)